The Allflex EID Stick Reader is a very robust tool that can scan livestock EIDs, store the list on the reader and download it to your PC. This type is very useful for scanning large groups of animals, particularly when they come on or leave your holding, to update your Total Starter Sheep software. We can also provide a mobile bluetooth printer that clips to your belt and lets you print lists of scanned animals when not near the farm office, total cost with reader £895.

The Speedata KT50 is a tool that uses RFID technology to scan EID Tags and record data against them. The Speedata KT50 provides an ideal solution to accessing your cattle and sheep records when outside, simply by either scanning an animal's EID Tag or by entering part of the eartag into the search box on-screen. Using Sum-It's Beef and Sheep Apps on it, you can record information including breeding, births, weights, treatments and movements as they happen, either individually or by setting the action to be repeated as you scan or select each animal. This data is then synchronised, via WiFi or Internet, with the Total Livestock Modules on your PC to save you having to enter the data separately.

The Speedata KT50 costs £795.00
Sum-It Livestock Apps start at £95.00 per annum.
